SILVER MEN TRAVELLING TO CHI CAGO WITH THE GOLD MEN.

Ex-Gov. Hill, ex-Gov. Russell, and Seas tors Gray and Smith Go With ex-Gov. Houser and Senators Jones and Vest-Jones to Represent the Teller Faction. The sharp report of a half dozen railroad torpedoes announced the departure of the Hon, Wil-liam C. Whitney and his party of sound-money advocates for the Chicago Convention as the North Shore limited train rolled out of the Grand Central Station at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. A rather thin elderly man rushed into the station waiting room in time to hear the torpedo fusiliade. Between puffs he saked the gateman to let him into the train. This

"Dear, dear! this is too bad," said he. "Isn't there any way of catching that train?" The gateman smilingly remarked that the train is the fastest through express on the road, and that the nearest Mr. Baldwin could come to catching it would be to take the 6 o'clock train and breakfast with Mr. Whitney

The members of Mr. Whitney's party are: Senator Gray of Delaware, Senator Smith of New Jersey, ex-Mayor Grant, District Attorney Fellows, ex-Police Commissioner James J. Martin, Smith M. Weed, F. H. Democratic State Committee.

All the Democrats who left for Chicago on the North Shore limited were not gold men. The silver men will receive some notable reënforcements when that train gets to the Convention city. Among its passengers are Senator George Graham Vest of Missouri, Senator John P. Jones of Nevada, and ex-Gov. Samuel T. Hauser

Jones of Nevada, and ex-Gov. Samuel T. Hauser of Montans, all free-coinage men. Scnator Vest was the first to show up at the station. He greeted Senators Gray and Smith and Mr. Whitney pleasantly, and said to an inquiring young newspaper man, who wanted to know if he was one of Mr. Whitney's guests:
"No, sir. I'm going alone. But I'll be damned if I'll be ionely when I got to Chicago." Senator Vest's ioneliness was destined to be relieved sooner than he expected, for in a few minutes those other free-silver advocates, Senator Jones and ex-Gov. Hauser, arrived. The ex-Governor surveyed the army of gold delegates for a moment, then, turning to Senator Jones, said:
"Well, we've struck a hell of a crowd, Senator."

"Well, we've struck a hell of a crowd, Senator."
This remark must not be taken as any reflection on the gentlemen referred to, for they are all personal friends of the Governor, who took occasion to tell ex-Police Commissioner Martin that he had a lot of 16 to 1 plunkers that might be used if there were no chips.

Senator Jonge said he was going to Chicago because he had been requested by telegraph by Senators Teller, Dubois, and others, who bolted the St. Louis Convention on the financial issue, to represent them there. He said that the endorsement of the Chicago ticket by the free-silver Republicans "depends altogether on who is nomlinated." Other pilgrims for Chicago who left on the train were Shipping Commissioner Maurice J.
Power and ex-Assemblyman James Oliver, who was Sergeant-at-arms of the National Committee four years ago.

Consist "The Democratic Convention must go ahead and do what it can for the buik of the People's party. There undoubtedly will be a Populist ticket put in the field, no matter what the main bulk of that party will do. The Convention which meets next week is a Democratic Convention and not any other kind of a Convention. It might be possible for a large number of the delegates and the Democratic party te lay aside party prejudice and call the Convention a silver Convention, but in the Democratic party, as in the Republican party, there is the rockribbed element which will refuse to go outside of the party on any proposition.

"I know that our friends the Populists would like to have the Democrats knock down party fences, but I am afraid that cannot be done. But they may rest assured that we will adopt a free-silver plank on which the free-silver Republicans and Populists can unite with the Democrats, and we will put a man on that plank that will go with it."

HOBART DENIES THE INTERVIEW. Didn't Say He Was Disturbed by the Grow-ing Strength of the Silverites.

PATERSON, July 2 .- Garret A. Hobart arrived home from his visit in Canton at about pressed himself as well pleased with the trip. When questioned concerning the interview which appeared in the New York newspapers this morning quoting him as expressing fewer of the growing strength of the silver men, he of the gröwing strength of the silver men, he said the whole statement, put in his mo ith, was manufactured out of whole cloth. When the train on which he was travelling was at Beaver. Matthew Quay of Pennsylvania, who was on the same train, gave an interview to a reporter. Mr. Hobart was going to the end of the car when the interviewer came up to him and said:

"I have had a long interview with Mr. Quay," and then inquired after Mr. Hobart's health, but did not have a conversation of any length before the train pulled out. Nothing was said about silver. Mr. Hobart was surprised this morning to see he was quoted as to silver, and he concluded that his interviewer at Beaver was responsible.

MR. WALKER TALKS PREE SILVER. Says that New York Bankers Know Noth > ing About Flannes. John Brisben Walker made an address in favor of free silver at Cooper Union last night. He had an audience composed of remarkably intelligent looking persons, but there were only enough of them to fill about half the seats in the hall. Mr. Walker said that the reason for his appearing there was that the silver side of the present currency question could get no show in the New York newspapers.

"I expect to suffer for this," he said. His argument was that the financial policy of the Government was dominated by the New York bankers and that these men knew nothing of "They never read up on finance," he declared,

"but they write about it and then talk about what they have written." He held that the New York bankers had forced upon the country New York bankers had forced upon the country a system of wildcat banks in 1817 against the wisdom of Franklin and Jefferson, and that they had upheld the old United States Bank until Jackson smashed it. They had, he said, caused every panic up to 1857, and then, after the war, caused the later ones by forcing reductions in the volume of the currency from $1,600,000,000 to $750,000,000. Their last mistake, he said, was in forcing the repeal of the Sherman hill.

take, he said, was in forcing the repeal of the Sherman bill.

"Bid this bring prosperity, as they promised?" he asked.

Now, he said, the people of the whole country west of the Alleghanys are in revolt, and if the Chicaso Convention puts up an honest man on a clearly worded platform the ticket will sweep the country. "This is not a fight for silver, he said," but a fight to escape from the control of a clique which controls the currency of the people. At the head of the gold procession marches Mr. Cleveland, closely followed by Mr. Morgan, Mr. Gorman, Mr. Brice, Mr. Platt, and Mr. Quay. If you believe that these men represent the best interests of the people, then follow them.

LOUISIANA POLITICS.

Sugar Planter Republicans Take the Lead in the McKinley Fight. NEW ORLEANS, July 2.- The National Republican State Central Committee, representing the sugar planters or white element of the Republican party, met to-day to arrange for the Presidential campaign. It was decided to ignore the old Republican element of the State, and to so shape the campaign as to compel the old-timers and negroes to vote for the electors put up by the Convention held under the out up by the Convention held under the auspices of the sugar Republicans. It was decided first of all to drop the word National and to call themselves simple Republicans in future. A meeting to ratify the nomination of McKinley was called to be held on Thursday night in New Orleans. An Executive Committee was appointed with powers to combine with the Populists, and a State Convention called for Aug. 3 to choose the Republican electors.

The early dates for the ratification meeting and Convention were fixed to forestall the old Republicans had a state of the ratification meeting and Convention were fixed to forestall the old Republicans had a state of the ratification meeting and convention were fixed to forestall the old Republicans had been supported to support the McKinley electors nominated by the sugar planter Republicans.

The latter are very strong, having been greatly strengthened since by the State election. They are claiming New Orleans by 15,000 plurality, and South Louisiana by 40,000. They propose to unite with the Populists in support of a joint electoral ticket, and such a union can be probably arranged, as the issue is an honest election in spite of the differences between the two parties on the financial question. The Republican and Populist members of the Legislature have been acting together during the session and the fusion formed between the two parties in April a seven stronger to-day than it was then.

ANTI-PLATTITES IN BROOKLYN. Thomas Fitchie Says They Have No Send

-The Fight in the Primaries. The refusal of City Works Commissioner Willis and all the other leading Republican statesmen in Brooklyn who are supposed to be in sympathy with Warner Miller's cru sade to sign the anti-Platt manifesto has disgusted ex-Supervisor-at-Large Thomas Fitchie, the or-ganizer of the McKinley League.

"Oh, they haven't any sand," was this contemptuous comment yesterday.

There is, however, to be no abatergent of the factional warfare between the Willis-Wurster factional warfare between the Willis-Wurster and the Worth-Buttling forces for the control of the organization. "We arr, going." Mr. Willis said, "to carry most of the primaries and elect most of the delegates to the State Convention."

This proposition both Mr. Worth and Sheriff Buttling who will direct the Platt forces, vigorously dispute. Both express their confidence that Mr. Willis will be badly routed. It was reported yesterday that, Senator George W. Brush, who had the temerity to sign the Warner Miller manifesto, weal likely to become a candidate against Park Commissioner Timothy L. Woodruff for the nonlination of Lieutenant-Governor.

Christian Endeavor delegates continued their calls to-day, and constituted the larger portion of the visitors. Among the other callers were National Committeeman Jamieson and City Treasurer Kochlemer of Chicago. They were accompanied by Attorney George Sleber of Akron. Parades and speeches will begin again to-morrow.

JOBS FOR WILLIS MEN.

The Brooklyn Leader Makes a Fat Place for One of His Henchmen. City Works Commissioner Theodore B. Willis of Brooklyn has made two divisions of the Sewer Bureau and has appointed ex-Alderman 4 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Hobart ex-/ W. H. Colson superintendent of one of them at $2,200 a year. The other division remains in $2,200 a year. The other division remains in charge of Superintendent W. W. Goff, whose salary is $2,500. Mr. Willis has also appointed E. C. Collier to a $1,000 clerkship and Henry I. Lohman and Homer E. Ramsdell inspector of pipe connections at $1,000 and $940 a year, respectively. The new appointees all belong to the faction in the Republican organization of which Mr. Willia is the leader.

> CABLE CARS RUN DOWN WAGONS. The Drivers of Both Wagens Injured-The Log of One Brokes.

John Hanley of 180 East 113th street, while driving a truck along Third avenue at Seventysixth street yesterday morning, coilided with a north-bound cable car in charge of Gripman John McCormick. Manley was thrown from John McCormick. Manley was thrown from his seat to the ground, and received a scalp wound. He was remuved to Flower Hospital. Isadore Kaufman, 17 years old, of 242 Willest street, was run into by a cable car in the afternoon while driving a wagon in Third avenue at Forty-fourth street. He was thrown from the wagon and his left leg was broken. The gripman of the car was arrested. Kaufman was removed to Flower Hospital. Frank Morproy, while driving a butcher wagon on Third avenue near Twentieth street last night, was run down by a cable car. The cable car knocked Morproy into the street, spraining his back. He was attended by a Bellevue ambulance surgeon.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS.

FRANK S. BLACK LOOMS UP AS CAN-DIDATE FOR GOVERNOR. Miller's State "Bolt" Scems to Have Fix

nied, but Mitholiand Has Got a New Rendy-made County Committee - Ro-bart's Reported Advice to Hanna. Garret A. Hobart, Republican candidate for Vice-President, who had a conference with Chairman Hanns of the Republican National Committee at Cleveland on Wednesday or he conduct of the campaign, and particularly on the treatment of the organizations in he Eastern States which sent Reed and Mortor delegations to St. Louis, has returned, and will probably meet ex-Senator Platt to-day. Hobart, it is said, went to Canton and Clevetand to warn Major McKinley and Mr. Hanns that the only battle to be fought in this campaign is that for the national ticket. Mr. Hobart is interested also in the make-up of the Executive Committee to be named by Mr. Hanna, which is to have the active tion of the campaign. He is said to have informed Mr. Hanna that the gold States are not without their silver alloy, and that it will not do to treat their electoral votes as already cast for the Republican candidates. Republican candidates for Governor in this State have been plentiful enough heretofore, out their numbers have increased markedly is the past week. This is due perhaps to the fact hat the State Committee, which will meet next Tuesday at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, will call the State Convention, and the fight for the nomination must soon reach a point where the favorities in the race will be declared by the political bookmakers. The very latest candidates are ex-Postmaster Cornelius Van Cott of this city and Congressman Frank S. Hlack of Troy. Black buttons bearing the portrait of the Rensselaer statesman made their appearance in the city yesterday. Several of them were worn in the corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night. Mr. Black is a young man a brilliant orator, and a solid organization man. He was one of the traveiling companions of ex-Senator Platt on his St. Louis trip. Speaker Hamilton Fish of the Assembly was very busy yesterday looking after his Gubernstorial boom. There may be some serious talk about this selection of a candidate for Governor at the Oriental Hotel to-morrow. Chairman Hackett of the State Committee, it is said, will come down tenight from his retreat on the St. Lawrence and stay at Manhattan Heach until the State Committee meets.

Other Republicans of note may be expected to Presday at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, will call stay at Manhattan Beach until the State Committee meets.

Other Republicans of note may be expected to seek the saute political Mecca during the next two days. The booms of Congressman Odell of Newburgh, Superintendent of Public Work, George W. Aldridge, and excellent Francis Hendricks must not be overlooked. All are faithful organization men and it is practically conceded that the candidate is to be of this class. One thing which may militate against the choice of Mr. Hendricks is the fact that Judge Irving G. Vann, who will be now, insteed for the Court of Appeals, resides in the same city. Syracuse.

the fact that Judge Irving G. Vann, who will be now.inated for the Court of Appeals, resides in tho same city. Syracuse.

The proposed bolting movement, fathered by John E. Milnoliand and Warner Milier, is now said to have died "a-comin!" There has been no ready response to the call for a new organization on the part of rural Republicans, and some of the stand-bys of the anti-Platt forces in this city, like Cornelius N. Bliss, have withheld their approval of it. Nothing discouraged, however, Mr. Milnoliand has gone right abead. His McKinley League, which was merely a provisional affair which he proposed eventually to transform into a regular Republican county organization, underwent the transformation last night with the exception that it is still called the McKinley League of the City and County of New York. In all other respects, as permanently organized last night, it resembles a regular county political organization. Mr. Milholiand was chosen President: Thomas F. Eagan, Rudolph Brenner, and Dr. E. J. Tucker were elected Vice-Presidents: S. A. Koenig, A. F. Caril, and V. A. McElheney Secretaries, and William Brookfield Treasurer.

It was determined to appoint sub-committees on organization, finance apeakers and halls. It was determined to appoint sub-committees on organization, finance, speakers and halls on organization, finance, speakers and halls, naturalization, parades and entertainments, first voters, and legislation, Just why some of these sub-committees are to be named, unless the organization is intended to be permanent, is not apparent. For instance, under the new law the Committee on Naturalization can have nothing to do till 1897, and so with the Committee on Legislation. It is evident from the character of the organization that it has other objects than the election of McKinley and Hobart; in fact, that it is the intention of its organizers to work hard to supplant the present regular county organization, presided over by Edward Lauterbach, Mr. Milboliand said as much in his speech accepting the office of President.

TRIED SUICIDE IN HIS CELL.

Lehmater Nabbed After His Wife Had Leaped from a Window to Escape Him, Michael P. Lehmaier, an advertising agent, was locked up in Jefferson Market prison yesterday morning in default of $1,000 ball for committing an assault on his wife. Late in the afternoon he concluded to end his imprison-ment by killing himself. Removing " crystal from his watch he broke it in haif and began to cut the arteries of both his wrists. His groans brought two keepers to his cell.

Lehmaier wasdragged out into the corridor, where both keepers held his wrists to stop the flow of blood. Head Keeper McDermott bound both wrists with bandages while awaiting the arrival of an ambulance from Hellevne, Hospital, to which Lehmaier was taken. The ambulance surgeon said that the quick work of the keepers saved Lehmaier's life.

Two months ago lehmaier's wife had him arrested for abandonment, and he was placed under bonds to pay her $10 a week. Mrs. Lehmaier says that she never received the money her husband promised to pay her. Sunday night Lehmaier called at his wife's house, at 40 West Thirtt-fifth street, and they agreed to live together again. Two days later they quarrelied, and Mrs. Lehmaier asked her husband to leave her house. He did go away, but returned late at night and forced his way in again.

On Wednesday Mrs. Lehmaier visited the West Thirtteth street station house and asked that her husband be arrested. Capt. Chapman said that the arrest could not be made without a warrant, but he agreed to station a policoman in front of the house on Mrs. Lehmaier's saying that she was afraid her husband would kill her.

The policeman on duty in front of her house heard her scream at 50 clock yesterday morning, and a moment later Mrs. Lehmaier, clothed only in her night gown, jumped out of a second-story window to the roof of an extension at the side of the house. Lehmaier was about to follow his wife when the policeman, who had run up stairs, nabbed him. from his watch he broke it in half and began to cut the arteries of both his wrists. His

MRS. DOROTHY'S GREAT FALL.

Knocked the Bottoms Out of Four Pire Es Kate Dorothy, a young married woman who lives on the fourth floor of a tenement house at 173 North Eighth street, Williamsburgh, stepped on the rear fire escape yesterday after noon to clean windows. The wooden flooring noon to clean windows. The wooden flooring was weak and gave way, and she went down with it to the third floor. She took along that flooring too, descended with it to the second floor fire escape, knocked the bottom out of it also, and landed in the yard on her side. She lay motionless for a minute and tenants thought that she had been killed. Before they reached her she was on her feet and complained of pains all over her body.

An ambulance was called and Surgeon Allen of the Homosopathic Hospital found that the only injuries Mrs. Dorothy sustained were bruises on the left arm. She was left at her home.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS HAVE A BIG PARADE IN RICHMOND.

They March Under the Confederate and Union Fings and Proclaim Their Loyalty to the Government-The Features of the Parade and the Incidents of the Bay. RICHMOND, Va., July 2.-The sixth annual reinion of the Confederate veterans ended today. The Convention and the business part of the reunion practically closed yesterday, but the climar was seen to-day in the grand parade of the veterans, sons of veterans, military from a dozen States, and three battalions of cadets from Virginia military schools and the High School of Washington. It was more of a grand assembly, in which thousands of men marched and countermarched, than a continuous parade, On account of the infirmities of the old solliers the line of march was made short, about a mile and a half. Five miles of troops passed over the route, the military and cadeta assigned to a longer march, which aided much in preventing the congestion of the mass in the line. The gray predominated everywhere in the crowd and in the line. Old bullet-torn flags led more than one division, and the flags of every one of the thirteen Confederate organizations were carried in the procession. The parade was three hours and a half in reaching Monroe Park, where the ceremonies incident to the laying of the corner stone of the Jefferson Davis monument took place. entire route was profusely decorated, the United States flag hanging entwined with Confederate battle flags and Virginia banners. Not a few of the camps carried their war banners side by side with the American colors and showed as much pride in one as the other. Many veterans wore their old faded gray uniforms, carefully kept for thirty years, and marched with an emblem of the Union in their hands. A veteran occupied the back seat of an electric car this morning. He was very old and grizzled, and carried in his hand a small Amercan flag, which he rolled up. A young man shouted across the car: "That's right, old man; roll her up; we don't want that kind here."

The old man answered; "This is now our flag as much as anybody's "This is now our flag as much as anybody's. If ought against it once, and now I'll fight for it just as quick."

Standing, he unfurled the little flag, and, placing it in his cap, put the cap on his head, and he was loudly cheered by all on board.

Gen. Gordon was chief marshal of the day, with Mayor Norman V. Randolph of this city as chief of staff and the Virginia Military Cadets as escort. Gov. O'Ferali, as commander of the Virginia troops, followed with his staff on horseback, escorted by the cadets of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Mrs. Jefferson Davis occupied a carriage, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Hayes, and Gen. Peyton Wise and J. Taylor Ellyson, President of the Monument Association, as escorts. Carriage after carriage of Southern girls representing their States as sponsors and maids of honor followed. They received many cheers. One of these carriages contained Miss McAllister, a Choctaw Indian maiden, sponsor for the Indian Territory, with three Choctaw girls as maids of honor. Their dark skins and comely faces attracted much attention. Another striking feature was the number of negroes in the line who served their commands as cooks and servants during the war.

Carpenter's famous battalion of the Stonewall Brigade was represented by five survivors, who marched alone under a banner telling of their history. Perhaps the most imposing brigade in the parado was that composed of Georgia troops, led by Gov. Atkinson, escorted by the Orgiethorpe Infantry. Gov. Carr led the North Carolina troops, The fleg of Cuba libre was seen twice in the procession and received many cheers. The veterans of Washington made a fine showing.

The veteran cavalry was commanded by Gen. I fought against it once, and now I'll fight for North Carolina troops. The flag of Cuba libre was seen twice in the procession and received many cheers. The veterans of Washington made a fine showing.

The veteran cavairy was commanded by Gen. Hampton. Rosser, Mumford, and other famous cavairymen rode at his side.

The corner stone of the Jefferson Davis tomb was laid at the conclusion of the parade. Gen. S. D. Lee made the chief address.

JULES S. ABECASIS DEAD. He Succumbed to Injuries Received While

Biding a Bicycle. Charles S. Abecasis, who was run down by an express wagon while riding his bicycle last Mouday morning, died at his home, 1,425 Broadway, yesterday morning. His physician had hope of the patient's recovery, and when he left his bedside on Wednesday night Mr. Abecasis was resting easily. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning he began to sink, however, and he died in a few hours. Mrs. Abecasis, who is in London, was notified at once by cable of her husband's death. The accident happened to Mr. Abecasis at Broadway and Fortieth street. He was returning from his usual morning ride, and while crossing Broadway was run into by the wagon which belonged to the New York Transfer Company, and was driven by Charles Reilly-of 433 Forty-fifth street. Mr. Abecasis was thrown from his wheel, sustaining a dislocation

West Forty-fifth street. Mr. Abecasis was thrown from his wheel, sustaining a dislocation of the hip, a broken collarbone, and severe wounds about the head.

Reilly was arrested and arraigned in Jefferson Market Court on a technical charge of assault. As the policeman who made the arrest testified that it was a matter of doubt as to who was to blame for the accident, and as he said that Mr. Abecasis had refused to go to a hespital and had been attended by his private physician, Magistrate Kudlich parolled Reilly for examination on July 7. Yesterday, when Mr. Abecasis death was annotneed, Reilly was rearrested and arraigned before Magistrate Flammer in Jefferson Market Court. The Magistrate held him in $2,000 bail for examination on July 7.

Mr. Abecases was born in London sixty-seven years ago. He came to this country when a boy and embarked in the rubber trade. In 1808 and 1809 he handled ship loads of rubber, and became known as the king of the rubber trade. In those days he drove the finest four-in-hand at Long Branch, and his cottage was the handsomeston Ocean avenue. He was a member of the Lotos Club, and was always to be seen on opera nights occupying a front seat in the section set aside for the Vaudeville Club. He was connected with many of the Hebrew Charitable institutions of the city and was a regular attendent of Shearith Irael Synagogue in West Ninetenth street. Mr. Abecasis leaves a widow and three sons. The funeral will be from his apartiments at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, and the interment will be at the Cypress Hill Cemetary.

CATCHES THE BICTCLE THIEF. Mr. Colborn Finally Runs Down the Ungrateful Quest Who Robbed Him On June 11 Emerson Colborn of 125 West Sixteenth street met a man in Madison Square Park to whom he took a fancy. He intro duced his new acquaintance to his home, fed him, and entertained him. Afterward, while he was asleep, the guest got together Colborn's bicycle, his bicycle clothes, a hat, and a pair of shoes, and silently departed. When Col. orn awoke and found his property gone, he solemnly vowed that he would devote all his spare time to hunting down. As ungrateful guest. Last night he rode down town on a Third avenue cable car. At Park row and Mulberry street he spotted the thief, who stood on the corner. He jumped from the car, and, graspling the man by the collar, he said: "I've got you at last."

Colborn haled his prisoner all the way up to the West Thirtieth strete station and lodged a complaint of Ziarceny against thim. The thief, who said he was Frank Harris of 45 Rowery, confessed that he had robbed Colborn, and informed the desk Sergeant that he sold the wheel to one Mesqueta of 227 East 107th street for $15. When a policeman went to that address Mesquita acknowledged that he had bought the bicycle, lie said he had given it to his nephew, Joseph Stern, who was then riding it in the Park. The wheel will be returned to Colborn. erty gone, he solemnly vowed that he would

A WHEELMAN HELD UP.

Dragged from His Bicycle, Marched Into the Woods, and Robbed. ASBURY PARK, July 2.-Lawyer S. A. Patterson was stopped on the road at Loch Arbour early last evening as he was riding home on his wheel by a negro and a white man. They dragged him off his bicycle, and, with the muz-zle of a revolver against his head, forced him to walk into the woods. They threatened to murder him if he made an outery. They took him to a clump of busnes bordering Deal Lake and prepared to the him to a tree. He argued with the nighwaymen until the white man ap-pealed to his companion to stop tying the law-ver. This appeal had the desired effect. Mr. Patterson's pockets were scarched and roubed of $15. His diamond ring was not touched. After the highwaymen wont away Mr. Patter-son loosened the cords round his hands and came to Asbury Park. The roads and woods between Loch Arbour and Long Branch were searched for the highwaymen, but without success. MUST APOLOGIEE TO ENGLAND FO THE HARRISON AFFAIR.

Sharp Intimation from Washington the Must Also Re Pald for the Arres WASHINGTON, July 2.-State Departme. officials do not conceal their irritation in diboundary dispute with Great Britain, growin out of the recent arrest of Mr. Harrison's e, gineering party by the Venezuelan tre The department was informed to-day that the arrest of the English engineers was without justification, inasmuch as they were strictly within the limits of the territory held by the British for more than ten years. This raise a question as to the accuracy of the report received through Venezuelan channels, which were that the British were trespassers of Venezuelan soil. Advices received to-day say that the arres occurred at the confluence of the Acarabis River at a point east of the Schomburgk line The English Government will probably demand an apology and a money indemnity before the incident is closed. Coming, as it does, at a time when the Uruan difficulty of a year ago was in a fair way of settlement, it complicates the situation, and will undoubtedly delay that harmonisus adjustment of relations between Venezuela and Great Britain which is considered a necessary precedent of the boundary dispute.

The Venezuelan Legation is without recent advices from Caracas, but the State Depart-

The Venezuelan Legation is without recent advices from Caracas, but the State Department has used the cables freely in communicating with the United States Minister at the Venezuelan capital, and it is not doubted that the embarrassments which this country must suffer in connection with the matter have been made clear to President Crespo. The Venezuelan Government has been flatly informed that Great Britain will not be satisfied with the payment of a small sum of money as compensation for the arrest of Sergeant Barnes and several of his subordinates a year ago, which has now become a part of the diplomatic history of the two countries, and known as the "Uruan incident."

President Crespo has been informed that the punishment of the commander of the department in which the arrest occurred and the payment of the indemnity must be followed also by an apology which will go further than all other considerations combined. The Venezuelan contention is that an apology would be tantamount to an acknowledgment of Great Britain's ownership of the territory in question, not withstanding it was east of the Schomburgk line. To this the Brittain reply that if the Venezuelans did not know they were if the wrong they would have given Lord Salisbury no satisfaction whatever. In other words if Venezuela is willing to punish the officer responsible for the arrest and pay the British subjects an indemnity for the Indignity imposed upon them. It is proper that they should make a complete reparation which would include an apology also. It is Venezuela's refusal to make this apology that has lengthened the delay in closing the incident.

The correspondence between the State Department and the British Foreign Office with reference to a treaty of arbitration between the state Department and the British Foreign Office with reference to a treaty of arbitration between the surpost chall is most friendly, and that it indicates a disposition on both sides to agree to some Convention which will relegate Anglo-American disputes to a friendly B

The arrest was made on a warrant issued at the Court of Special Sessions, which document accuses Robbins of being a disorderly person.

The case dates back twenty-three years, and according to statements made by the prisoner at the station house, he met the Nelligan woman at that time in New Orleans, became infatuated with her, and lived with her for some years. He tired of her and left her, and subsequently married his present wife.

The Nelligan woman eventually had him up in the Jefferson Market Court, where he gav bonds to pay her $3 a week. He then appeals the case, and, being beaten, forfeited the bond and was obliged to give a similar one.
